November 2017

Richard Davis, Concord Crossroads, LLC (C3R) Program Manager for the United States Army Special Operation Command (USASOC), 7th SFG (A) Antiterrorism Program, Elgin, Air Force Base, Florida, was highly recognized for his contribution towards the unit receiving a 100% Commendable rating in all five inspection areas.

In November of 2017, the United States Army Special Operations Forces, 1st Special Forces Command inspected the 7th SFG (A) on five program areas to include: Management, Program, Training and Exercises, Operations, and Budgeting in accordance with Army Regulation, AR 525-13.

Mr. Davis achieved this success by coordinating the inspection requirements with the Command's Physical Security Officer and by thoroughly focusing on a specific task until its full completion. To this point, Mr. Davis, states of the inspection, "I did a lot of the heavy lifting regarding projects, repairs, and upgrades of the overall physical security needs of the unit." Although Mr. Davis was commended on leading the performance by his Team Lead, Jonathan Rouse, he understands that all achievements are assigned to the collective performance of all starting with the 7th SFG(A) Antiterrorism Officer and continuing with the USASOC and C3R Antiterrorism Team.

As the C3R Antiterrorism Program Manager for the 7th SFG(A), Mr. Davis states, "My focus has always been and will continue to be, doing whatever it takes to get the job done." Concord Crossroads applauds Richard Davis for his consistent dedication to excellence.
